Corporate Conduct

Regular Audits of Ethical Standards

As part of OPC's ongoing practice of periodically reviewing its Code of Ethics to ensure alignment with the company's values, commitment to high standards of corporate conduct, and evolving operations, a revised Code of Ethics was introduced in 2023 following the company's business expansion.

In 2024, as part of this continued effort, feedback was collected from key stakeholder groups — including employees, significant customers, investors, and bondholders. The input gathered was used to assess the Code's relevance, clarity, and effectiveness, ensuring it continues to reflect the company's values and expectations for ethical behavior.

Employee Training on Ethical Standards

In addition to reviewing the Code of Ethics, OPC provides comprehensive training to all employees on the company's ethical standards. As of both 2023 and 2024, 100% of employees across the entire group — including part-time and temporary staff — have completed this training. OPC does not employ contract workers; therefore, all individuals across OPC's operations receive consistent and thorough training on ethical standards.
